WHERE'S MY CHOCOLATE???

This is the time of the year when we start listening to the weather forecasts and prepare for the inevitable rising temperatures. Warm weather means we have to be careful when it comes to chocolate candy. The lower the melting temperature, the smoother the chocolate tastes. Confectioner's chocolate (the yummy stuff) contains cocoa butter. It not only melts faster than chocolate, but also if it gets too warm, the cocoa butter will separate, rise to the top, and turn a grayish color. Consumers refer to this as "old" or "stale" candy. The other type of chocolate is composition chocolate, and is used mostly as a warm weather replacement. Some popular bars that are covered with composition chocolate are Baby Ruth, Butterfingers, and Peanut Chews.

Because there is air-conditioning in many locations, we will be using more confectioner's chocolate this spring and summer. We will try to transport it in coolers in our trucks.

If there is no air-conditioning in your location, we will continue to do as in the past- a few more jellies, hard candies, and licorice, along with the popular composition chocolate bars

SAY WHAT????

It seems like our newsletter readers really enjoy when we share some actual excuses for missing work. We just ran across some more so here they are. They are actual excuses as reported by Human Resource Directors across the country.

- Employee broke his leg while snowboarding on his roof while he was drunk..
- An employee blew his nose so hard he threw his back out.
- A skunk got into an employee's house and sprayed all his uniforms.
- Employee was poisoned by his mother in law.
- A buffalo escaped from the game reserve and kept charging the employee's house everytime she tried to get to her car.

The man who smiles when something goes wrong, is the man who has thought of someone else to blame it on.
